Dear Mr Cooke

We refer to your email below.

We deny any wrongdoing in relation to this matter. In fact, we consider that you may misunderstand the form of the Amended Response recently filed by our client in relation to the property proceedings, which we agree have been finalised by final orders.

We refer to the TikTok account in the name "Stephen Christopher Cooke" from which several videos are posted of you speaking to the camera. We note that you have identified yourself, our client and your children in TikTok videos posted from such account.

We draw your attention to Section 114Q of the Family Law Act 1975 (Cth) which provides that a person commits an indictable offence if they communicate to the public an account of family law proceedings that identifies parties or others involved. https://classic.austlii.edu.au/au/legis/cth/consol_act/fla1975114/s114q.html

We request that you forthwith and within seven (7) days remove all TikTok and other content publishing the account of these proceedings on any other platform and that you refrain from publishing any further content contrary to Section 114Q, failing which we will report this matter to the Federal Police without further notice to you.

Yours faithfully

Subject: Re: NCC3896/2023 – Observations on Legal Process

Ms Shedden,

I acknowledge receipt of your correspondence of 11 August 2025.

It has not escaped my notice that your client's recent filings contain matters already determined by final property orders made on 13 September 2024 — orders that were agreed to by both parties and sealed by the Court. These orders were extended and agreed upon without any changes by your firm, while I was, I may add, in a disadvantaged position and under considerable pressure, which I now view as having been exploited.

The reintroduction of such terms in new proceedings, without any lawful application to set aside those final orders, speaks directly to what I and many others have come to see as a symptom of broader systemic rot within the NSW legal system: a willingness to proceed as though finality and good faith agreements are optional when expedient.

Delaney Roberts' involvement in this particular sequence — from agreement, to attempted re-negotiation, to procedural reintroduction — is now part of the documented record.

In the interest of transparency and public accountability, I intend to share this exchange, along with relevant context, on public platforms including TikTok and Instagram. This is not intended to prejudice any proceedings, but to contribute to a broader discussion about the integrity of legal process in NSW.

Stephen Christopher Cooke
