Hi Jacqueline,

Attached are the results, including the hair follicle test. Please note that the previous pathology report confirming my medication intake, which was provided to you, is invalid and should be disregarded as it lacks signatures from the lab.

Speak soon.

Hi Samantha,

In our meeting earlier today, I mentioned that I would be presenting evidence to the court regarding my medication adherence. I didn't discuss alcohol consumption, nor did Drew inquire about it.

I've just called Drew's office in Sydney and spoke with the receptionist. They advised us to require permission from the other side before we are able to share these reports with Drew and suggested I send this email your way to initiate the process. I don't see any downside to doing this.

Stephen

Yes, all correct, but I got a notification to say just shared with me and also got another notification to say she has shared with all.

On a different note, I've made contact with Julie Garis from Simple Split Financials Accounting to schedule a meeting regarding financial disclosures. While she's knowledgeable about Forensic Accounting practices, she isn't licensed in this area. Nonetheless, she's offered to review the disclosures and provide her opinion. During our conversation, I mentioned my previous request to Westpac for copies of signing authorities related to mortgage changes. Julie commented that they might not respond to my requests if there were indeed any errors... and it seems I'm encountering difficulties in this regard, as evidenced in the attached. I've already visited the branch twice regarding this matter as well.

I need you to contact Westpac to request this information. I don't want a Magistrate to make an interim property settlement without having a comprehensive understanding of the situation.

Could you ask the bank to disclose signing authorities concerning the mortgage since its inception and also inquire about any attachments or liens on the marital home? It's account ending in 7778 where it appears Heather affected a change to the mortgage with only one signature page 4&5 in "requests to modify..."

The Bank won't talk to me at all regarding the account ending 2919 but my concern is that the loan may be connected to the mortgage on the marital home as well.

Lastly, any updates regarding the Relation Space? Did my drug/alcohol get allowed/taken into consideration?

Thank you Samantha

Stephen

Dear Stephen,

Am I right in thinking that Heather posted that quote but only to you and that's why you received the notification? You then asked her to stop posting things like that and she told you were bullying her? If that is the case it is very bizarre and seems text book gaslighting but if I've got the events mixed up please let me know.

Hi Stephen,

Unfortunately, I can't just write to the bank and ask them to give me the information, they're more likely to give it to you than me. I can however subpoena them and require them to produce the material to the Court. There is small issue in that we can issue five subpoena without leave (permission from the Corut) and we have already issued five. We will have to seek leave to issue another one to Westpac. We can certainly do that and I will get the process underway now as if nothing else it gives you peace of mind. I don't feel it's as crucial for the interim hearing as it is the final one so don't worry to much about that. The interim hearing is really just going to be an accounting exercise – how much money do you need to meet your outgoings.

We have not heard back on the parenting issues you mention below and have followed up again today.

Yours faithfully,
